Dear Thuan

Yes, this is fine.

The Licence to Publish agreement that you and your co-author will have signed when you published with us allows you some rights including the right to include your work in part or in full in a thesis provided it is not published for commercial gain. If this is the case, yes, you may include your paper in your thesis, with the appropriate acknowledgement of the source, including the authors, the International Association of Wildland Fire (being the copyright owners of the journal) and CSIRO Publishing (the publishers). Citing the link to your paper on our website (<http://www.publish.csiro.au/?paper=WF14124> / <http://dx.doi.org/10.1071/WF14124>) would also be appreciated.

This permission is granted for this use only. Any subsequent use requires a separate permission from us.

As a courtesy to Xulin Guo, your co-author, you may wish to advise him of this inclusion in your thesis.

Thank you for seeking our consent.

Good luck with your dissertation.

With best wishes,

Carla

Subject: Permission to use the paper

Dear Journal Editor,

My name is Thuan Chu, PhD. Student at the Department of Geography and Planning, University of Saskatchewan, Canada. I have published a paper: "Compositing MODIS time series for reconstructing burned areas in the taiga-steppe transition zone of northern Mongolia" , <http://dx.doi.org/10.1071/WF14124> on the International Journal of Wildland Fire. I would like to ask you for your permission to re-use the paper as one chapter in my PhD dissertation. If you agree please confirm me by an email. I will cite and acknowledge the paper and journal in my PhD thesis work.

Thank you for your support.

Best regards,

Thuan
